Season's Greetings

Dear Friends,

Annual news-letter time, and again our blessings have been too numerous to number---for these; good health, and good friends, we are most grateful.

The younger set is growing up fast. Stanley is now 3½. His loyalties and ambitions waver between his Dad, and his big Brother. He thinks he must be a doctor---marine pilot, and then a fireman for good measure!

Loretta is 6, in the first grade and has now mastered her first paper-back reader "Look, look---oh look" etc. Though she is more inclined to be a dreamer than the next two, she comprehends quickly.

Brenda is 7, in the second grade, and seldom is still longer than necessary. She still loves to read, and absorbs extra books of the "Easy Reader" variety. She is thrilled with her first year Brownie Scout work.

Anita, the real live-wire of the four is settling down considerably, taking her reading and home-work with a zest without prodding, and is starting her second year of piano lessons. She "flew-up" to Jr. Scouting, and is happy to have been chosen as patrol leader and starting badge work. She is 9 years old.

The high-light of Diann's (soon 17, and Junior) year came last August when she was invited to return home with the Warren Jones family to see Los Angeles and visit David. She was there about a week, but it was long enough to contact a serious malady from their teen-age son. Medicine is useless; only a steady stream of letters back and forth seems to alleviate her suffering.

Janet, 20, also took a trip this summer. She was invited to drive with Rose Mansur Owens, who was driving from here to Oklahoma City to visit her sister Judy Mansur, who is also a good friend of Janet's. After a few days with Judy she flew on to Denver to spend a week with Jill Cottrell, a college roommate. Janet has been working at the office since the last of January and not fully decided on future plans.

David finished training at Pensacola, Florida in April, receiving a 2nd Lt. commission, and was transferred to El Tora Air Base at Santa Ana, California for advanced helicopter training . He isn't sure about getting home for Christmas, but we are hopeful.

Floyd and Eva have managed to keep within U. S. this past year except for a 3 day trip to Niagara Falls in August with the four younger children. They were really thrilled with the Falls, and could never remember seeing anything so beautiful. Floyd still loves to fly, but rents in preference to owning a plane. Eva's chief extra-circular activity is still Brownie Scouts.

Mother Owens remains in fairly good health, able to maintain her own apartment next door, above the office.

May we all strive to center our lives more and more on Christ, not only at Christmas, but throughout the year, that the Prince of Peace may reign in our hearts, our communities, and our Nation.

Love and Best Wishes,
The Colemans

Hi Betty,

Nice to hear from you. Glad everyone is doing okay.

It sure is a challenge but fun, researching the relatives. I'm sending you a couple more attachments just for fun. I'm waiting now for my German friends to help with some words. Bill and I think we figured out the letters but can't find anything in the dictionary to back it up.

The first attachment is the christening record of Johan Henrich Klinker dated March 9, 1704 whom we believe to be Gerd's father. It is on line 30 and all we can make out is date 9 March: Klinker _ind g: Johan Heinrich h or susc: ______ Oel or ju. I have seen the Susc. or Husc. spelled out on other documents to be Susceptor and Susceptrix or Husceptor and Husceptrix. Can't find anything close in the dictionary.

On the other attachment dated 1702, those words are spelled out and the "tor" seems to be before a man's name and the "trix" is before a woman's. This 1702 record is of Ernistina Dorothea Klinker dated May 21, 1702 (Item #55.). There is that same word again after Klinker _ind g: , then the spelled out word of h/susceptrix before what looks like Doctoria and then we can't make out anything else. Sometimes the records only list a mother or father. Depends if they were married or not at the time of birth/christening.

Well, anyway, have fun. I'll send more later when I get it figured out.

Debby

one who undertakes
susceptor is a God father susception - the act of ~~baptising~~ baptism susceptible - capable of admiting or receiving (in this case baptism.)

Hi Betty,

How everything is going okay with you? We are all fine and can't believe the summer is gone. We enjoy the fall though and are looking forward to a vacation next week around the Shipshewana area, shopping and antiquing.

I got a little help with some translations. I haven't heard anything from my friends only that they are "struggling" to figure anything out. I was looking for help on the different web sites showing how to read old German script. I came across a lady, Dr. Elke Hedstrom, saying she was an expert in translating old German script and that you can get a free estimate. I sent her the two lines from 1702 and 1704 and she sent me back the translation free of charge. She said it was a challenge even for her but in the future she would have to charge me.

I did find out that suspectrix is godmother and suspector is godfather so your English dictionary was correct. In German, the s and h look alike.

So here is the translation:

1702 - Line 55 in German:
den 21. Mai: Klinkers Kind genannt Ernestina Dorothea, susceptrix Doctoria Kochs juengste Tochter Ernestina

1702 - Line 55 in English
May 21: Klinker's child. She was named Ernestina Dorothea. The godmother was Ernestina who is the youngest daughter of the teacher Koch.

1704 - Line 30 in German
den 9. Maerz: Klinkers Kind genannt Johann Henrich, susceptor Winich Sohn

1704 - Line 30 in English
March 9: Klinker's child. He was named Johann Henrich. The godfather was Winich's son.

So for whatever this is worth. It really doesn't tell us anything about parents, etc. I found most of the records to be brief. The later records though list the parents and witnesses of christening.

I'll keeping working at it. It's been a busy summer. My niece, Miranda got married this past weekend. It was also Erin's 21st birthday and she was a bridesmaid. We have been caught up in wedding plans and bridal showers so now we can get back to normal.

I talked to Helen this morning and she is excited about her trip to Florida in November. Should be a nice trip for her. She wasn't very talkative today but did say your mother was getting along okay.

That's about it for now.
